Supporting Nepal

Bamboo Schools Project

The Nepal based project builds schools for vulnerable and destitute children throughout Nepal. These children come from very poor Nepalese or Tibetan families; many have had to survive on the streets or have been forced into child labour. These children do not have the opportunity or the funds to receive an education under the present system. This is especially true for girls who are rarely allowed to attend school. In Nepal more than 50% of the population is illiterate. Having an education and better social fulfillment greatly improves their chances of finding employment and contributes to breaking the cycle of poverty that plagues the country.

ASMAN (Association of St. Mary's Alumanae Nepal)

The association is a non-governmental organisation devoted to supporting underprivileged Nepalese women and children for the last nineteen years. The support encompasses health, education, cultural awareness and development.
